

Life Sciences Medical Cannabis

Yigal Arnon & Co.'s Medical Cannabis practice continues to expand as Israeli and international regulation rapidly shows increasing openness to medicinal cannabis, spurring more and more local and global investment in this field. Israel has long been known as a world leader in medical cannabis research and development, as well as in cannabis-related technological innovation. Over the last few years, Israel's lawmakers and regulators have been working to create an increasingly supportive environment to facilitate the growth and international scaling of Israeli medical cannabis companies.

Yigal Arnon & Co.'s Medical Cannabis practice group closely follows the changing regulatory and business environment both in Israel and internationally, enabling it to give up-to-date expert advice to the key companies and investors involved in this field, as well as to those looking to enter this innovative and expanding industry.
